John J. Medeiros, owner of Integrated Machine, LLC, brings Brownell Trailers to Fairhaven, Massachusetts

FAIRHAVEN, MA (November, 2009) – Brownell Trailers, one of the premiere hydraulic boat trailer manufacturers in the world, has been sold and relocated to Fairhaven, Massachusetts. Brownell Trailers, LLC is now owned by John J. Medeiros of Marion, Massachusetts, owner of Integrated Machine, LLC, and shares its new state-of-the-art location with Integrated Machine at 129 Alden Road, Fairhaven.

Integrated Machine is a cutting-edge CNC machining company offering sophisticated automated machining of precision components to a wide variety of businesses including Brownell boat trailers. The collaboration of these two companies will take the Brownell Trailers, LLC to the next level of quality in development, manufacturing excellence and outstanding customer service.

“Integrated Machine has produced many of the precision components used on Brownell Trailers’ products for several years,” Mr. Medeiros noted, “and we have an intimate understanding of Brownell’s manufacturing processes and its tradition of customer service. We stand poised to further enhance Brownell Trailers’ excellent product line with improved production efficiencies, technologically advanced manufacturing processes and even more responsive customer service.”

Mr. Medeiros said that the combination of Integrated Machine’s CNC machining expertise and lean manufacturing productivity will enable Brownell Trailers’ talented staff to continue to raise the bar of customer expectation on quality and performance for the industry’s finest hydraulic boat trailers. Brownell hydraulic boat trailers are designed with the most advanced computerized engineering software available, utilizing comprehensive digital modeling and simulation programs to ensure optimum functionality and performance prior to the production of any trailer model.

Brownell Boat Trailers, Inc. was founded by the late David “Fred” Brownell, inventor of the boat stand and the u-shaped hydraulic boat trailer. His innovative designs and commitment to quality made his boat companies undisputed leaders in quality, innovation and durability.
