Jerry's Marine Service Named Sales Agent for Marine Power

Jerry's Marine Service (JMS) has entered into an agreement with Marine Power, Inc and Donovan Marine to serve as the engine sales specialists for all Jerry's and Donovan customers throughout eastern US areas served by each company.

We made this move because of Jerry's technical knowledge of marine engines and because of its reputation for excellent customer service, according to an announcement made jointly by Eddie Allbright, president of Marine Power, Jon Lewis, president of Jerry's and Bob Sanders, vice president of Donovan Marine on Wednesday.

"We are very pleased that Donovan Marine has entrusted us with the responsibility of marketing Marine Power engines," said Lewis. "Over the years, we have enjoyed a great track record with the Marine Power products and we are extremely confident that this new alliance will serve both companies very well in the future," he added.

"Donovan's is very excited that Jerry's will be marketing our Marine Power Engine line and we are looking forward to a long and mutually beneficial relationship with the Jerry's team," Sanders said. "This is a very progressive step for both companies in our ongoing efforts to support all of our customers with knowledge, the right products and superior service."

Donovan Marine will continue to stock Marine Power engines at their various locations to insure expedited delivery, help keep freight charges low and therefore keep pricing very competitive.
