

In order to keep the public and the employees of Mercury Marine well informed, Mercury has created two internet micro-sites on which we will post updates, media coverage, questions and answers, and comments from our executive staff. Called "Charting Our Course," the sites are easily accessed and constantly updated.

Each site contains documents and information appropriate for its audiences. Anyone with questions or comments regarding Mercury Marine, its current events and its stated plans to consider the consolidation of Mercury operations in Fond du Lac, Wis., and Stillwater, Okla., are encouraged to submit their questions on these sites.

Employees can access "Charting Our Course" through BC One, an employee site piloted by Brunswick Corporation, parent company of Mercury Marine. Employees must use their BC One passwords to gain access.

The public can reach Charting Our Course on the internet by going to MercuryMarine.com, clicking on the News and Events tab on the homepage menu, then clicking on Charting our Course. Employees can also utilize this site.

The micro-sites offer four sections: Media, From the President, Negotiations and General. The Q and A segment can be found under General.

Do you have questions about Mercury's progress? E-mail us at chartingourcourse@mercmarine.com and we'll try to address your question in an upcoming "Charting Our Course" posting.
